Our Changing Communities & Community Organisations

The Takeaway is Hope: CHANGE NOW!

It doesn't have to be this way. The Berlin Wall fell. Nelson Mandela walked out of prison. And now the crowds across the Middle East are marching out into the streets and saying, no, we don't have to go on doing the same things in the same way, we can kick over the board and start with a clean slate. We have seen the power of hope, and the power of despair, and the explosion of youth.

Yet here in Australia, we go on in the same old way, carrying out our good works in our own corners, while our politics and our media and our public discourse becomes more and more dysfunctional. Reforms and reports and inquiries are announced endlessly, but nothing much seems to change. Our good intentions trickle away into the sand. At a time when seismic changes in technology and ecology and commerce and world politics and culture batter us, nobody seems able to act decisively.

We've had our victories, certainly – our revolutions, even. But they have been conservative revolutions. Back then we said that when the barriers were removed the world would change, that new players would bring new insights and new ways of working. Has this really happened, or have these insights been co-opted to the cause of nonstop economic growth? Are we satisfied with what we've got?

It's time to stop waiting for the government to act. The community sector in Australia is big enough to move on its own – bigger than agriculture, bigger than media, bigger than the car industry. We don't have to confine ourselves to minimalism and incrementalism. If we knew our own strength, if we weren't so domesticated, if we really believed in the values that we espouse, what could we achieve?

If we started with a clean slate, what would we come up with? What groups would be responsible for what? What would be the changes to our roles and our training and our qualifications and our career structures? What systems would come together under the one umbrella, what functions would be scattered locally, what empires would be disassembled, what bureaucracies would be unraveled and rewoven?

Let's get moving, today, together. Australia's not going to reform itself.

If you work in, work for, or care about community, this is the one event this year that you cannot afford to miss.

It's a chance you can't afford to miss

Communities in Control is THE LEAST EXPENSIVE conference of its type around. No other community conference offers you access to this calibre of speakers for this tiny cost. We work with partners to ensure we can keep the price as low as possible, so as many people as possible can come along.

The Keynote Speakers

ELIZABETH BRODERICK was appointed Sex Discrimination Commissioner and Commissioner responsible for Age Discrimination in 2007. Previously, she was a partner at Blake Dawson and developed the firm's business case for flexibility in the workplace. Her efforts contributed to creating a workplace where more than 20% of the firm's workforce now uses flexible work arrangements. In 2009, she accompanied a group of Aboriginal women to the United Nations where they told their story of rebuilding their community following years of alcohol abuse, enabling their voices to be heard on a global stage. A lawyer and businesswoman, Elizabeth was the 2001-02 Telstra NSW Business Woman of the Year and Australian Corporate Business Woman of the Year. She has been a strong advocate for Australia's national paid parental leave scheme and more recently has championed the changes to the ASX Corporate Governance Principles to increase the number of women at decision-making level.

SENATOR KATE LUNDY is the Parliamentary Secretary to the Prime Minister and Parliamentary Secretary for Immigration and Multicultural Affairs. Prior to the 2010 election, Kate was Chair of the Joint Standing Committee for the National Capital and External Territories, a long-standing member of the Senate Environment, Communications and the Arts Committee and one of the Federal Parliament's representatives on the Advisory Council of the National Archive of Australia.

THE HON JOAN KIRNER AM is Victoria's much loved former Premier and the Victorian Community Ambassador. Joan began her working life as a school teacher and later became the highly prominent president of the influential lobby group Victorian Federation of State Schools' Parents Club. She joined the Australian Labor Party in 1978, being elected to Parliament in 1982 before becoming Victoria's first female Premier in 1990. Since leaving Parliament in 1994, Joan has continued to work tirelessly as a community activist, advocate, champion for the advancement of women and social justice campaigner.

The Keynote Speakers

SIMON MCKEON is the 2011 Australian of the Year, a prominent investment banker and record breaking yachtsman, but it's his efforts to support multiple Australian and international community organisations which has earned him great admiration. While enjoying a successful corporate career, Simon decided he didn't want to put off serious engagement with the community sector until his most productive years were behind him. So in 1994 he transitioned into a part-time role as Executive Chairman of Macquarie Group's Melbourne office, enabling him to support a range of causes and organisations, including joining the Board of World Vision Australia. Simon is currently Chairman of the CSIRO and Business for Millennium Development, which encourages business to engage with the developing world. He is also involved with the Global Poverty Project and Red Dust Role Models, which works with remote Indigenous communities. A leading social entrepreneur, Simon demonstrates how business and philanthropy go hand in hand.

PHIL RUTHVEN is the founder and Chair of IBISWorld, an international corporation providing online business information, forecasting and strategic services. He is also a director of several companies, advisory boards and charitable organisations. IBISWorld now operates in Australia, the USA, China, the UK and Indonesia. Its website www.ibisworld.com is rated as one of the most sophisticated and powerful industry & Marketing websites in the world today. Phil contributes regularly to radio, TV, newspapers, magazines and documentaries on business, economic and social issues. He continues to be one of Australia's most frequent and prolific commentators in demand by the media, and is widely considered the nation's most respected strategist and futurist on business, social and economic matters.

THE HON PETER RYAN is the Deputy Premier of Victoria. He also holds the portfolios of Regional and Rural Development, Police and Emergency Services and Bushfire Response.

Peter was elected to Parliament in 1992 when he won the seat of Gippsland South in the Legislative Assembly. In December 1999 he was elected unopposed as Leader of The Nationals.

Peter previously practised law for almost 20 years in regional Victoria where he specialised in litigation – his passion for politics being based on a belief that every person is entitled to a fair go. Peter is passionate about developing positive initiatives which reflect the hopes and aspirations of the 25 per cent of Victorians who live outside Melbourne.

Incredible Speakers; Unforgettable Conversations

LINDA LAVARCH currently holds one of the most influential positions in the Australian community sector as Chair of the Australian Government's Not-for-Profit Sector Reform Council while also holding a key position of Research Fellow at the Australian Centre of Philanthropy and Nonprofit Studies (ACPNS), Queensland University of Technology.

Linda is a former State Member of the Queensland Parliament serving as Queensland's first woman Attorney-General. She currently serves as a Director on the Boards of The Australian Cervical Cancer Foundation and Hockey Queensland.

MARK SCOTT presides over one of the largest and most influential media empires in Australia – he's Managing Director of the Australian Broadcasting Corporation (ABC). During his tenure, the ABC has launched two new channels – ABC for Kids and ABCNews24 - and presided over the ABC's reinvention online. He's also engaged in vigorous public debate on the future of public broadcasting. Before joining the ABC, Mark worked for Fairfax, and before that he was Policy Advisor to the NSW Minister for Education.

CR SAMANTHA DUNN has a background as a financial controller in the vocational education not-for-profit sector. She was elected to the Shire of Yarra Ranges Council in 2005, and is currently serving her second term as a councillor. She is also the President of the Victorian Local Governance Association (VLGA). Samantha plays a key role in advocating for sustainable transport and reducing car dependency, and this year was elected Chair of the Eastern Transport Coalition. She represents the community on a number of different committees mainly focussed on environment, transport, the early years and community health and wellbeing. She is a committed and passionate member of the Dandenong Ranges community and is focussed on improving liveability in the Shire of Yarra Ranges.

9.45-10.45 Leading the Agenda: Why, How, Who?

LINDA LAVARCH, Chair, Australian Government's Not-for-Profit Sector Reform Council; Research Fellow, Australian Centre for Philanthropy and Nonprofit Studies, QUT

For the first time in Australia's history, a government has thrown its reputation behind the drive for a reformed, revitalised, and robust not-for-profit sector. And the Not-for-Profit Sector Reform Council - an eminent independent panel of community and business leaders, linked in with the Department of Prime Minister and Cabinet - is at the heart of that process. Hear where the Council's coming from, where it's breaking through, and where it's taking your future.

10.45-11.15 MORNING TEA

11.15-12.15 What Makes Us Tick

HUGH MACKAY, Psychologist, social researcher, writer

Why do we talk as if we're rational, but act as if we're not? Why do some people always want to take control? What is the true role of religion? Why do we seek change, yet resist it? Why do we want more of the things that have failed to satisfy us? Why are we so passionate about sport? Why do we fall out of love? As Australia's leading social researcher, Hugh Mackay has spent a lifetime of listening to people talk about their dreams, their fears, their hopes, their disappointments and their passions. In a series of bestselling books, he has documented the impact of the changes that have been radically reshaping our society. In this keynote he reflects on some of the things that don't change and identifies ten desires that drive us all.

12.15-1.15 LUNCH

1.15-2.15 More than Luck: Ideas Australia Needs Now

MIRIAM LYONS, Executive Director, Centre for Policy Development

From climate change and sustainability to proper governance and strengthening our democracy, the ideas in More Than Luck have come at the right time. And we need politicians who are willing to take them seriously. If we cannot think bigger than tweets, we are in trouble. If our politicians won't think bigger than sound-bites, we are lost. Hear first hand from Miriam how More Than Luck is both a collection of ideas for citizens who want real change and a to-do list for politicians looking to base public policies on the kind of future Australia needs. This is about the practical steps we can take to share this country's good luck amongst all Australians - now and in the future.

The Program - Day Two

~TUESDAY 31 MAY 2011~

9.00-9.30 VENUE OPENS (tea, coffee & water available)

9.30-10.45 Social Sector Trends, Facts and Insights: Bigger and Better

PHIL RUTHVEN, Founder & Chairman, IBISWorld

Charities and not-for-profit organisations may not sound like big business in Australia, but that assumption is simply incorrect. The industry employs over one million workers on a paid basis, and revenue is expected to increase by 6.4% in 2010-11 to reach a massive $101.54 billion. The future for the industry remains bright, with long-term government grants and service provision contracts keeping revenue volatility down. Industry revenue is anticipated to increase by an average of 4.1% per year in the five years through 2015-16, with the essential services provided by the industry set to continue to be delivered by these organisations, many of whom are highly experienced and efficient. What does all this mean for your organisation? Australia's leading forecaster reveals the answers.

10.45-11.15 MORNING TEA

11.15-12.30 The Great Community Debate:

Local Government is the best level of Government to reform and assist Communities

Hosted by THE HON JOAN KIRNER AM, Former Premier of Victoria and Victorian Communities Ambassador

FOR: CR STEPHEN MAYNE, Manningham City Councillor, Crikey founder and shareholder activist & CR SAMANTHA DUNN, President, Victorian Local Governance Association (VLGA)

AGAINST: TBA

12.30-1.30 LUNCH

1.30-2.30 Launch of New System-Changing Community Initiatives

SENATOR KATE LUNDY, Parliamentary Secretary to the Prime Minister and Parliamentary Secretary for Immigration and Multicultural Affairs

Just Communities: Facts, Lies, Atrocities, and Answers

ELIZABETH BRODERICK, Sex Discrimination Commissioner and Commissioner Responsible for Age Discrimination

Australia relies on the community organisations we work in to deliver vital social services. These groups have never been under more pressure, but we've still got to change faster than ever to keep up with the demand for reform. We're working for the rights of others: but what about our own rights? How do we ensure a sustainable workforce where people are paid fairly? What is the ASU pay equity case all about? Will it deliver for community sector workers? Should poverty be the reward for a lifetime spent caring? How do we get more women chairing our community Boards? What lessons can we learn from the corporate sector in relation to women's leadership? (What can they learn from us?) Justice that doesn't begin at home can't change the world.

2011 Leadership Oration:

The Australian Community Sector: Inspiration, Perspiration, Liberation

SIMON MCKEON, 2011 Australian of the Year, Entrepreneur, Business and Community Leader

Simon McKeon knows how to make a profit, and he knows when not to make a profit. He's worked with Macquarie Bank, and he's been involved with not-for-profits ranging from the CSIRO to the Global Poverty Project. He's seen what businesspeople can't do, and he's seen what activists don't know, and he knows how to bring the two sides together to change the world. He's spending this year as the official Number One Australian trying to jump-start the not-for-profit sector into a new era of innovation and inspiration. Take notes.

Inspired by our vision of 'life to the full' for families and individuals in all their diversity, we are especially concerned with offering services that ensure improved opportunities for those experiencing disadvantage and hardship in order for them to achieve enhanced living conditions, and a better future for their children.

CatholicCare (formerly Centacare Catholic Family Services) has partnered with Our Community to stage the Communities in Control Conference every year since its inception in 2003.

About Communities in Control

Communities in Control is the biggest annual gathering of community sector workers, volunteers and supporters – each year bringing together a stellar list of speakers and 1300 delegates to listen, debate, network, exchange tips and strategies, and recharge.

Since its inception in 2003 the conference (which is now described by many as a 'movement') has provided a platform and outlet for the very premise of Communities in Control – that for communities to survive and thrive, they must be in charge of their own destinies; that they must be given practical support to set their own priorities, design their own approaches, and create their own solutions; and that to do this will ultimately create safer, healthier communities.

Allowing communities to take control can be a hard pill to swallow – because it is hard, because the results can be slow to emerge, and because it raises all manner of practical questions around reform directions, funding challenges and adaptation pains.

Working together, Communities in Control supporters are marching towards the answers.
